

Planning for the future - Wills and Trusts workshop

What?

Want to think about securing your child's future? Sometimes we put this off but it helps to find out about how best to write a will or set up a trust for your child. Some of us assumed this only applied if you had huge assets. Or thought it was something we could put off until we were a lot older. But the truth is everyone with a disabled child needs to write a will to deal with guardianship, apart from any financial aspect. So we all need to think about this sooner rather than later, to be safe.

This FREE, friendly, informal event for parents is just the ticket. Philip Warford, Director of Renaissance Legal is a real expert on this subject and he makes it easy to understand and start to think what you should do for the best.

"I'm so glad I came. Phil has demystified this and spurred me to get on with it."

Who do I want to look after my child if something happened to me?

Would a Will help?

What is a trust and would it apply to our situation?
